- This one hour webinar will discuss basic practices for combating contamination in tissue culture laboratories. It will include a review of common contamination sources in the laboratory, as well as how to choose and use an appropriate disinfectant. Basic good laboratory practices, including the use of appropriate personal protective equipment, will be discussed, as they apply to tissue culture activities. The use and cleaning of biosafety cabinets and incubators will be covered. A basic checklist for investigating contamination issues will also be provided. This webinar will be interactive, and the audience will have the ability to ask questions, as time allows.
